50 years ago

Thursday, Dec. 31, 1936

Smiling from ear to ear, 35 Press-Record newsboys informed their employers that Granite City residents gave them generous Christmas gifts this year totaling $265, an average of $7.50 apiece. The gifts are an annual custom that recognize the boys who call upon residents twice a week, regardless of weather conditions.

Madison

Carl McDowell

"For the city, the best thing would be to get some more industry in here."

Granite City

Laura Jackson

Tip of the hat

Norm Owca

'Taiwan flu' reaches Granite City

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

Department of Health and Hospitals, St. Louis.

GRANITE CITY — An unidentified resident is the first in the Metro East to catch the "Taiwan flu," a virus generally affecting persons 35 and younger.

The case was confirmed Monday by Dr. Wilma Clasenman of the

The Taiwan flu's symptoms are similar to those of other types of flu, including headaches, a runny nose, fevers of 101 degrees or higher and coughing, Clasenman said. If contracting the Taiwan flu, the chronically ill run a danger of complications such as pneumonia, she said.

To treat or prevent the Taiwan flu, Clasenman said a vaccine, amantadine, is effective and available with a doctor's prescription.

Two other flu strains, the "Mississippi flu" and the "Chile flu," are being watched for in this area, but no cases of either flu have been reported, Clasenman said.

Persons 35 and younger may be more susceptible to Taiwan flu than those persons who lived in the 1930s and 1940s because persons during those decades were exposed to other Asian flu strains and may have developed immunity, she said.

Clasenman declined to identify the Granite City resident who suffers from Taiwan flu.

Orville Hodge dies

By Bill Winter
Staff writer

Once the most powerful political figure in Illinois, Granite Cityan Orville B. Hodge, 82, died at 8:30 a.m. Monday at Edwardsville Care Center East.

A successful real estate and insurance executive, Mr. Hodge for years also was a state representative, although he was a Republican in a mainly Democratic community.

HE ADVANCED from the Illinois House to the statewide elective office of Illinois auditor of public accounts, meanwhile building strong bipartisan support in the Chicago area as well as downstate.

It was just when he was about to run for governor — a candidacy viewed as unstoppable — that a scandal began to emerge, one that was to result in his imprisonment for more than six years, 1957-62, at the Menard penitentiary near Chester.

Painstaking study of microfilmed records of state disbursements showed that large sums were being diverted from the Illinois treasury, through unauthorized checks converted to envelopes filled with cash. EMBEZZLEMENT of more than $600,000 was alleged. Several of his aides also received prison terms.

Speculation that still other persons might be involved was never verified; he took full blame but gave no details to authorities.

It was the most meteoric rise and most spectacular collapse of a political career in Illinoisans' memory, at that time. (In the early 1970s, former Gov. Otto Kerner was convicted and imprisoned in an unrelated case, prosecuted by now-Gov. James Thompson.)

PART of Mr. Hodge's statewide popularity in the early 1950s may have been due to his generosity; he was always willing to "buy the house a drink" when entering crowded

Orville Hodge

Dead at 82

lounges. But he also had a pleasing personality and a smooth, confident manner that won him many friends. Seen by some as a classic example (See HODGE, Page 5A)

Personality of the year to be named

GRANITE CITY — Who had the greatest impact in the Quad Cities during 1986?

Readers will find out in the Jan. 2 issue of the Press-Record when the staff starts a new tradition by naming our first "Personality of the Year."

Much like Time's "Man of the Year," the Press-Record's Personality of the Year will not be necessarily judged on popularity or a list of accomplishments. The criteria is based on the area resident who had the most affect on the lives of our readers, meaning persons on our list of candidates include those who may be considered villains, heroes or somewhere between.

Fiscal reality is vital

To the editor:

I usually find myself in agreement with nationally syndicated columnist Tom Wicker. But the other day I was astounded to read his column urging Democrats in the Senate and House to avoid facing the deficit problem because that might hurt us politically.

He specifically criticized Speaker-elect Jim Wright and former Virginia Gov. Charles Robb for advocating revenue increases to help balance the budget.

His basic message: The White House is being irresponsible on the deficit, so you ought to go ahead and be irresponsible too or you may lose the next election.

Wicker has a germ of truth when he suggests answers to the deficit are not going to be popular. But from there he strays far.

My answer is fairly simple: A political party unwilling to do what is unpopular does not deserve to win, and probably won't.

No one denies the deficit is our No. 1 domestic economic problem, or that the deficit is one of the major causes of high unemployment.

No one denies that if we keep on the present fiscal path the end result will be calamity, not only to our economy but to our system of government. The lesson of history is clear: Freedom does not thrive amid economic chaos. And that's where we're headed if we don't change our course.

This fiscal year we will spend $207 billion on interest. Perhaps 60 percent of our deficit will be purchased by those beyond our borders. In the last three years, we have moved from being the world's No. 1 creditor nation to being the world's No. 1 debtor nation.

A few weeks ago I called the Treasury Department to ask how much of our national debt is being held by Saudi Arabia. I was told the information could not be given out.

My guess is that these holdings are substantial. Assuming they are, it is a reasonably safe assumption — what if the Saudi leadership were to quietly one day say to the President: "You either change your policy in the Middle East or we will stop buying your bonds and we will dump all the bonds we have on the world market."

If the Saudis followed through on such a threat, it would cause international turmoil. I hope we would have the courage to resist their threat.

But better than that, I hope we have the courage to face the reality of the deficit. We cannot continue to spend one-fifth more than we take in year after year and not expect to reap a horrible harvest.

The time to act is now. People gave the Democrats a majority in the House and Senate and expect us to respond to their needs.

We should have the courage to do more than hope lightning will strike in 1987 if we simply let a Republican administration suffer the consequences of its international foreign relations mistakes and its fiscal follies.

Leadership is not holding your finger to the wind to see what is popular. This nation needs leadership that faces our problems and acts upon them.

If such leadership causes us to be defeated in the next election, we will have served the nation well and we can be proud of our record.

No one can assure us that if we follow the coward's path advocated by Tom Wicker that it will lead us to victory. People can sense cowardice. My guess is that course will lead us to both political defeat and to shame.

Forgive me for a personal reference. In the 1984 election I took some unpopular stands, contrary to the advice of my campaign managers. Among these stands, I said increased revenues were necessary to move toward balancing the budget.

My opponent not only attacked me in debates on my stand, but ran TV commercials attacking me.

But something strange happened. Despite the Reagan landslide in Illinois, I won.

We can be honest with the people and win.

But slipping and sliding past every tough issue without taking a stand will only lead to further irresponsibility by both parties.

When is a tax cut not a tax cut?

By Paul Harvey

You were afraid this would happen. You've become skeptical of the promises of politicians — though I cannot imagine why — and when before the last election they voted you a tax cut it seemed too good to be true.

It was. Texas' Jim Wright is head honcho in the new Congress, Speaker of the House. Already he is talking about taking your promised tax cut away from you.

You are expecting your taxes to decrease January 1. Congressman Wright says that tax reduction "may be delayed."

He means you may not get it. Wright has told his party caucus that he will initiate several pieces of major legislation — with or without the President's backing. His agenda includes new trade legislation, farm aid, welfare reform, highway programs — most of which will cost more money.

So the increased taxes he proposes will not be used for relieving the national debt, but for paying for more and larger federal government "programs."

Democrats in the House since the last election have a majority of 238 to 177. They can pretty much do as they please.

While it was a Democrat, Dan Rostenkowski, who helped to write the pre-election tax cut, even before the final vote he was already talking about increasing taxes again — after the election.

Remember that reducing your total income tax was predicated on abolishing a wide range of deductions which taxpayers have enjoyed.

Now the deductions are gone and the taxes are going up again.

Let me prepare you for some more double-talk.

Expect congressional leaders to try to justify their proposed tax increase by blaming the President for not reducing military spending — or by claiming the Gramm-Rudman law sets statutory deficit targets — or by insisting that it is the only way to reduce the federal deficit.

Your taxes were reduced this past year on the premise that more money would be yours to spend — thus to stimulate our economy. Anything that stimulates our economy increases the government's income without increasing taxes.

But Speaker Wright represents an arrogant breed of politicians nurtured on the notion that they know how to spend your money better than you do.

Fred Graham

News correspondent to speak at BAC

Emmy Award-winning law correspondent Fred Graham of CBS will give two free public lectures at Belleville Area College Friday, Jan. 16.

BAC is sponsoring Graham's visit as a salute to the Bicentennial of the Constitution and as a lead-in to the People's Law School, jointly sponsored by BAC and the St. Clair County Bar Association, that begins Jan. 21.

Graham will lecture at 7:30 p.m. in the Varsity Gymnasium of BAC's Belleville Campus, 2500 Carlyle Road. His speech will be on the 200th anniversary of the U.S. Constitution.

The afternoon session, also in the Varsity Gym, will be geared toward high school students in District 522. It will be an informal gathering—in "Face the Nation" style—with Graham being the "guest" and the panel comprised of high school students. The exact time of the afternoon session is to be announced. The public also may attend this session.

An attorney, Graham covers the U.S. Supreme Court, Justice Department, FBI and the legal profession for CBS. He is a graduate of Vanderbilt University Law School, Yale University and Oxford University, where he attended as a Fulbright Scholar.

Graham won three Emmys in 1973 for his coverage of the Watergate cover-up trial and the resignation of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. He also has covered the White House tapes controversy, several Abeyon trials, and the trials of Daniel Ellsberg, John Connally, John Hinckley and John DeLoach.

A native of Little Rock, Ark., Graham reports on the "law" segment of CBS television and radio news. He also serves as substitute moderator of the CBS News TV program "Face the Nation."

In 1972, Graham went to CBS News from The New York Times, where he had been Supreme Court correspondent since 1965.

Pageant slated

Fantasy Coachworks Ltd. announces the 1987 Ms. Fantasy Beauty Pageant Extravaganza National Finals will be held on Jan. 3 and 4 at the Cervantes Convention Center.

A Celebrity/Press Reception will be held at the Sheraton St. Louis Hotel on Jan. 3. The Sheraton has been chosen as the official Accommodations Patron for the pageant finalists.

Chase says writers should be part of their own stories

Meeting the "real" Chevy Chase can be a bit of a surprise. Although outwardly a clown—the kind of man who likes to mimic in real life what he does for laughs while performing—Chase also exhibits a refreshing frankness when discussing his life off camera.

Chase recently joined Steve Martin and Martin Short in Tucson, Ariz. to promote their new film, The Three Amigos. Following a press preview attended by Chase and Martin, I asked Chase how he felt while watching the film and trying to gauge the audience's reaction.

"Well, it was hard to tell how people were reacting," Chase said. "I laughed a lot. I tend to anyway. I'm my own worst audience and in some ways my best. I've got to say that when we came to the singing bush scene I was on the floor and Steve was right next to me giggling too. I loved that scene."

"But I didn't hear laughter the way you do in a theater with the general public. I think with a regular audience and a lot of kids in there it would have been a lot more raucous."

Many comedians, like Robin Williams and Martin, came into the business as stand-up comics. Chase is happy that he did not travel that route.

"The great majority of comics who have come up in recent years have been stand-up comics," he said. "I've never done that. I find that very difficult and in some ways demeaning and self-deprecating. I'm lucky that I haven't had to go that route."

"The way I came through was as a writer. And if there was any advice I would give a young performer today, it would be to read and write. Sooner or later you might write yourself in. Alas, I wrote myself into Saturday Night Live I didn't mean to necessarily, but the things I was writing were easier for me to do than others."

Chase recently took part in a symposium on presidential humor. He was invited because of his popular imitations of former President Gerald Ford. I asked Chase how Ford reacted in person to his antics.

"He was a delight," Chase said. "I've got to say that he and his wife are like parents to me. He and his wife visited me while I was at the Betty Ford Center, which was very unusual. We spent some nice time together. He was just very happy that I came and did the symposium.

"I always look back on those days and say, 'Why did I do those less than flattering bits on him?' But at the time I didn't agree with him politically so that was another arena."

American tourists find Rio is equatorial jewel in the rough

Rio de Janeiro is Brazil's dazzling crown jewel. It's a city that sings, dances and plays, while outsiders the world over fantasize being part of the fun, sun and relaxation that the romantic name conjures up.

Rio—River of January—is Brazil's second largest city with more than 9 million inhabitants and still more pouring in every day.

Both the fare and the distance made getting there difficult at one time, but today there are charter packages, special fares and comfortable flights. American tourists are beginning to discover that a trip to the land of Carmen Miranda is well within their reach.

Settled more than 400 years ago at the foot of Sugar Loaf Mountain, today's Rio is a sprawling city that climbs over and around hillsides and mountains, and works its way inland for 10 miles.

To its east, the Atlantic Ocean crashes ashore along 15 miles of broad, white sand beaches. To the west rise steep green mountains of many shapes and shadows. Looking down on the city from any of its high vantage points, the physical beauty is breathtaking. Back at ground level things are not quite as picturesque.

Rio is divided by its mountains into two separate zones, and a riddle of tunnels connects it. On the north is the industrial section and to the south the residential and tourist areas. In between lies Centro, the downtown area that is a mass of apartments and office buildings.

Visitors are staggered by its size, the seeming confusion, the hassle of taxis and public transportation, the distance between points of interest and the unrelenting warnings to be watchful of thieves and muggers.

With its current difficult economic situation, Brazil is a shopping and bargain bonanza for visitors. But for its own less educated citizens, jobs are few. Brazil's currency is the cruzeiro, which keeps getting devalued because of the country's sagging economy, rampant inflation and soaring unemployment.

Being south of the equator and on the Tropic of Capricorn, the seasons in Rio are opposite those in North America. The hot summer months are from December to April, but the weather is warm year around, and both Cariocas (as local residents are called) and visitors usually can be found at one of Rio's many beaches. Like pearls, they follow one upon another, with each having its own personality and character.

The beaches are the focal point of life in Rio, with swimming, surfing, volleyball and soccer (the national craze) keeping things alive.

The two most famous beaches are Copacabana and Ipanema (remember that girl?), and it's fun to just sit on the sand and watch the activities and the endless parade of people.

While Copacabana is noisy and uninhibited, Ipanema and its neighbor beach Leblon are quiet by comparison. Beyond Leblon is Gaven beach, and further on is Barra, Rio's longest beach with more than 10 miles of sand. The beaches closest to downtown are

Most of the well-known five-star hotels are along the avenues fronting on the famous beaches.

Flamengo and Botafogo, both of which are on Guanabara Bay. Copacabana is lined with some of the city's best hotels and many upper-middle class residences. Ipanema is almost exclusively expensive apartments and condominiums.

Fronting on the beaches are shops and boutiques with local items. However, the shopping street is the one behind the beach area, where you find specialty stores featuring leather products, clothing and jewelry.

Brazil is famous for its gemstones and one of its best and most trustworthy jewelers is Il. Stern on the Avenue Branco in Ipanema. Stern offers a tour through its museum displaying gems in both a finished and natural state, and a tour through its cutting and design area.

The two most outstanding attractions in Rio are Sugar Loaf Mountain, named for its shape, and Corcovado Mountain (the hunchback) with its 120-foot statue of Christ the Redeemer looking over the city with arms outstretched in perpetual blessing. Getting to the top of them provides an adventure in itself.

A cable car ride to the summit of Sugar Loaf, which sits out in the bay. The first stop is Morro da Urca, with a captivating view of the city, a restaurant and an entertainment center featuring samba performances on the weekends.

The second stage of the cable car takes you to Sugar Loaf's 1,200-foot peak.

Departures from the ground level are every half hour and continue until 10 p.m.

You reach the 2,100-foot peak of Corcovado Mountain by climbing through the Tijuca Rain Forest. The 20-minute, two-mile electric train ride up the mountain runs continuously from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. After stepping onto the station platform it's still another 200 steps to the base of the towering Christ statue which crowns the mountain top.

The 1,145-ton giant is made of concrete covered with soapstone. Mass is celebrated on Sundays in a chapel at its base.

The statue is built on Rio's highest point, making the city, bay and Sugar Loaf below appear as mere toys. At night the statue is illuminated by floodlights and Christ appears to dominate and float over the entire city.

In Rio you'll eat well and inexpensively. The national dish is Feijoada—a kind of thick stew of black beans and meat chunks over rice. Brazilians wash it down with a fiery cane liquor drink called batida.

The most interesting dining experience in Rio is going to a churrascaria, where you can sample excellent Brazilian barbecued meats. Most popular of the churrascarias is the rodizio where you can taste a little of everything, rather than a lot of just one or two items. The meal is a set price—about $10—and the waiters just keep bringing it out.

Most of the well-known five-star hotels are along the avenues fronting on the famous beaches. Two of the best are the Rio Palace, fronting on Copacabana Beach, and the spiffy Caesar Park, which overlooks Ipanema Beach. There are many other hotels, of course, with rates to fit every budget.

The official language is Portuguese, but just about everyone connected with a tourist-related business either speaks or understands English. Spanish is also helpful.

Brazil is the fifth largest country in the world, covering nearly half of South America and boasting a 4,500-mile Atlantic coastline. The Amazon comprises 60 percent of its territory, and is a yet untapped source of wealth. Distances between major cities are great, and flying is the only sensible way to travel around the country. The youth and blend of Brazil's people—the majority of whom are under age 25 and whose families have migrated from all over the world—along with its climate, minerals, oil and other resources portend great growth in the future.

Brazil still is a fascinating sleeping giant, and Rio is her playful, happy child.

Southwest set passenger miles record

Southwest Airlines flew 642.8 million passenger miles in November, a 23.9 percent increase over the 518.9 million RPMs flown in November of last year.

For the first 11 months of 1986, Southwest flew 6,710.3 million RPMs, compared with the 5,966.4 million RPMs recorded for the same period in 1985, a 12.7 percent increase.

This record traffic for November is attributable to significant growth in ASMs at both Southwest and TransStar, along with strong load factors.

Mumps warning issued

The mumps vaccine should be included as one of the required immunizations for children," Illinois State Medical Society President Jere E. Freidheim, M.D., a Burr Ridge, Ill., pediatrician, said this week. There have been 2,400 mumps cases in Illinois this year, compared to last year's 292 cases.

"I have personally seen more cases of mumps lately than in past years," said Dr. Freidheim. He said some mumps cases are appearing in young people who apparently have been immunized.

"Parents should contact their children's physician and together, parent and physician, decide whether to reimmunize," said Freidheim.

"Children 15 months and over who have never received the mumps vaccine should definitely be vaccinated now."

"The mumps vaccine has minimal side effects and risk associated with it. It is available from local health departments or from the family doctor or child's physician."

"Mandatory mumps vaccination might have prevented this outbreak," said Freidheim in calling for the requirement now.

Mandatory mumps vaccination does not require legislation, but does require an administrative rule change, he said. This process is now being initiated by Illinois Department of Public Health Director Bernard Turnock, M.D.

"We support Dr. Turnock's effort to require that school children be immunized against mumps, along with the other required immunizations such as diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), tetanus, measles, rubella and polio," said Dr. Freidheim.

Mumps is an acute, infectious, viral disease, clinically referred to as epidemic parotitis or infectious parotitis.

Incubation occurs one week after exposure to the virus.

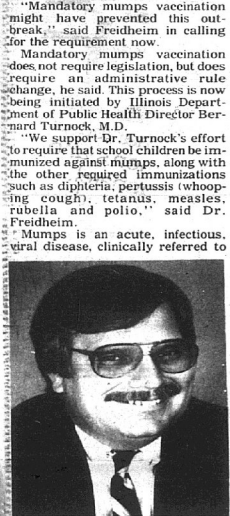

Symptoms are:

- Swelling of one or more of the salivary glands.
- Fever.
- Headache behind the ear.
- Pain upon eating or swallowing.

Potential complications include swelling of testicles (especially in males past puberty) with resultant sterility (possible); swelling of ovaries in females with resultant sterility (rare); and cerebral mumps appearing in the form of meningoencephalitis (very rare). Treatment includes bed rest and a reduced intake of meat or acidic/tart foods that cause glands to produce saliva.

The average duration of the illness is up to two weeks.

Prevention is achieved by childhood immunization using combined measles/mumps/rubella (MMR) vaccine, or a single inoculation against mumps virus only.

Ted Eilerman

Eilerman elected

Ted Eilerman, president of St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, has been elected board chairman of the Hospital Association of Metropolitan St. Louis (HAMSTL) for a second term.

He was also elected to a second term as treasurer of the Illinois Hospital Association (IHA). That election took place at the organization's annual meeting held recently.

HAMSTL, now in its 25th year, is a voluntary, not-for-profit organization of representatives from its 50 member hospitals. They work together to solve common problems and conduct programs to benefit member institutions and the public.

Eilerman, who has served SEMC for 17 years, joined St. Elizabeth's administrative team in 1968 as an assistant administrator. In 1974, he was appointed executive vice president. He was named president in 1984.

He currently serves on the board of directors of several community and professional organizations.

Traditional meal

Tradition comes with holidays

The warm and appealing appearance of traditional Christmas foods like turkey with oyster stuffing, cranberry sauce and sweet potatoes is enhanced by elegant and simple cookware and serving dishes.

Use candles, a colorful tablecloth, fresh greens and a few ornaments from the tree to reflect the friendship and glow that has a way of sneaking above the perennial rush of the season.

Oyster stuffing

- 1 cup chopped celery
  - 1 bay leaf
  - 1 cup dry bread crumbs
  - 3 cups shucked oysters with liquid
  - 1 tsp. poultry seasoning
  - 1 tsp. pepper
  - 1 cup chopped onion
  - 1 cup butter or margarine
  - 1 tsp. snipped parsley
  - 2 beaten eggs
  - 1 tsp. salt
- Cook celery, onion and bay leaf in butter over low heat until tender in 10-inch frying pan. Remove bay leaf. Add bread crumbs and parsley, mixing well.

Drain oysters, reserving liquid. Add oysters, eggs, poultry seasoning, salt and pepper to crumb mixture. Mix well. Stir in enough oyster liquid to moisten. Bake, covered, in 350° oven 30 to 35 minutes.

Cranberry mold

- 1 1/2 cups ground fresh cranberries
- 2 pkg. (3 oz. each) orange or lemon gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 tsp. lemon juice
- 1 tsp. cloves
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tsp. salt

- 1 1/2 cups cold water
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 1 orange, sectioned and diced

Combine cranberries and sugar. Set aside.

Dissolve gelatin and salt in boiling water. Add cold water, lemon juice, cinnamon and cloves. Chill until thickened.

Fold in cranberry and orange sections. Spoon into 6-cup mold. Chill until firm, about 4 hours.

Unmold. Garnish with crisp salad greens and orange slices, if desired.

How to unmold: Loosen edges with knife dipped in warm water. Dip mold to rim in warm water 10 seconds. Shake slightly. Place chilled moistened plate over mold. Invert.

Casserole

- 2 (16 oz. each) cans whole sweet potatoes or yams
- 1/2 cup nutmeg
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup butter

In round casserole, mix potatoes with nutmeg, cinnamon, salt and brown sugar. Dot with butter.

Bake 20 to 30 minutes at 350°. If desired, toss with 1/2 cup miniature marshmallows last 10 minutes of baking.

Buffet of chocolate

'Tis the season for entertaining. If the guest list is longer than the place settings available, a buffet is a perfect solution. Not only does it solve the seating problem, but a casual air promotes fellowship and conversation as guests mingle and enjoy fine food.

For casual holiday entertaining, make a homemade chocolate dessert. Offer coffee and specialty drinks to complement the buffet.

Party puffs

- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 cup flour
- 2 eggs

Chocolate Cream Mousse

- 1/2 cup quartered red and green candied cherries, if desired

Heat water, butter and salt to rolling boil in saucepan. Add flour all at once. Stir vigorously over low heat about 1 minute or until mixture leaves side of pan and forms a ball. Cool slightly. Add eggs, one at a time, beating until smooth and velvety. Drop dough by heaping spoonfuls onto ungreased baking sheet, forming 10 mounds about 2 inches apart. Bake at 400° for 30 to 35 minutes or until puffed and golden brown.

Remove from oven. Slice off small horizontal portion of top. Reserve. Remove any soft filaments of dough. Cool.

Prepare Chocolate Mousse filling. Spoon into puffs. Garnish with candied cherries, if desired. Replace tops. Chill.

Makes 10 puffs.

Chocolate Cream Mousse

- 1 tsp. unflavored gelatin
- 1 tbs. cold water
- 2 tbs. boiling water
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 1 cup heavy cream, very cold
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Sprinkle gelatin over cold water in small bowl. Stir. Let stand 1 minute to soften. Add boiling water. Stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Stir together sugar and cocoa in chilled, small mixer bowl. Add heavy cream and vanilla. Beat at medium speed until stiff peaks form.

Pour in gelatin mixture. Beat until well blended. Add nuts. Chill about 10 minutes before filling puffs.

Ask the dietitian

Dear Dietitian,

Q. What does a dietitian do? What are the qualifications? Besides this hospital, in what other institutions can you find a registered dietitian?

A. A registered dietitian has a four-year college degree in dietetics or nutrition from an accredited university, has completed an internship program in a hospital approved by the American Dietetic Association, and has passed the registration examination.

Some dietitians have a master's degree and PhD. Dietitians are required to have 75 hours of continuing education every five years to maintain their registration.

Registered dietitians can work in a hospital as clinical and/or administrative dietitians.

A clinical dietitian assesses patients' nutritional needs, and communicates with physicians when dietary modifications and nutrition support are needed. This can include administering tube feedings and/or total parenteral nutrition, a process of administering nutrition through the vein.

Dietitians provide nutrition counseling to in-patients and out-patients when continued dietary modifications are required.

They also conduct classes on normal nutrition, weight reduction, diabetic diets and coronary diets.

An administrative dietitian organizes, plans, directs, and evaluates a food service program.

Other dietitians are involved with teaching nutrition and diet therapy at universities; conducting nutrition research in industry or universities; and assisting with community programs, such as day care centers and school lunches.

Dietitians also conduct general public and professional nutrition seminars, analyze restaurant menus and recipes, and counsel athletes in sports nutrition.

In business, dietitians are employed by food companies for research, nutritional analysis and sales of food products and nutritional supplements.

Dietitians are employed at metabolic units (such as renal dialysis centers), home health and consultant agencies, and state or federal health departments.

In conclusion, dietetics is a versatile profession. The dietitians at St. Elizabeth Medical Center are most interested in a healthier you.

"Ask the Dietitian" is a service provided by the registered dietitians of SEMC. If you have a question, write "Ask the Dietitian," St. Elizabeth Medical Center, 2100 Madison Ave., Granite City, Ill. 62040 or call 798-3156 or 798-3492.

BC GRANITE CITY JOURNAL—December 31, 1986

Smith sells unit; volume is up slightly

A.O. Smith Corp. on Dec. 22 concluded the sale of its Data Systems Inc. subsidiary to Deluxe Check Printers Inc., St. Paul, Minn. Deluxe paid $71.5 million to acquire the subsidiary in Brown Deer, Wis.

"The sale fits well with our strategy of concentrating on our leading businesses," Thomas I. Dolan, chairman and chief executive officer of Smith, said. "We made acquisitions in our electric motor and reinforced fiberglass pipe businesses in 1986. We plan to further develop those operations as well as our automotive and water heating businesses."

"The sale involves only the electronic funds transfer portion of the subsidiary. An engineering services and consulting group and an internal software development function are not included in the sale."

Dolan also announced projected 1986 operating results. Sales from continuing operations will be somewhat over $900,000,000, an increase over the 1985 sales figure of $880,902,000.

Dolan projected earnings for the year — on continuing operations after preferred dividends — of $21,000,000 to $22,000,000 or between $2.39 and $2.49 per fully diluted share. That compares with 1985 continuing earnings of $25,758,000 or $3.21.

Urban League seeks volunteers

The Madison County Urban League is seeking volunteers to work with the agency in the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program to prepare income tax returns for low-income and elderly, and volunteers to help weatherize the inside of senior citizens' homes.

"Those interested in the VITA program must be able to attend a training session sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service from Jan. 19 through Jan. 23."

Riley new circuit judge

The Illinois Supreme Court has appointed Paul E. Riley of Glen Carbon as a circuit judge of the 3rd Judicial Circuit, which includes Madison and Bond counties.

Riley, 44, has been an associate judge in the circuit since Oct. 1, 1985. His appointment as circuit judge is effective Monday, Dec. 22.

Riley will fill the vacancy left by the retirement of William E. Johnson, of Glen Carbon, who was unable to work after suffering a stroke in April 1985. Johnson, 55, remains in a nursing home.

Riley will remain circuit judge until 1988, when the seat will be filled in a partisan election. He said Wednesday he plans to be a candidate for the judgeship. Had Johnson continued in office, his term would have expired in 1990.

Philip J. Rarick, chief judge of the circuit, said he was very pleased with the appointment of Riley, whom he described as "a very fine judge."

Rarick said he knows of two other persons who sought the appointment who also would have been good choices. He said he did not know how many applicants there may have been.

Although the courts have been short-handed since Johnson's illness, the other judges have "pitched in to take up the slack," Rarick said.

"It will be a good feeling to be back at full strength again," he said. Rarick said he plans to move quickly to begin the selection of an associate judge to replace Riley. Associate judges are selected by vote of the circuit judges.

Riley attended Edwardsville schools, received an undergraduate degree at St. Louis University and a law degree from the St. Louis University Law School in 1967. He was on the staff of the Madison County public defender's office from 1971 to 1979 and headed the office for several years.

Riley is married and has four children.

In addition to Riley, two other incumbent associate judges, Wendell Durr and Nicholas Byron, and former Associate Judge Roy W. Strawn applied for the Johnson seat.

At Collinsville

Shaky Warriors drop opener

By Gregg Ochoa

Executive Sports Editor

COLLINSVILLE — Don Deterding needed to shake things up a little. It almost worked.

The Warriors, playing like they were sleepwalking, tried to use their defense to inspire their sluggish offense. But in the end, Springfield Griffin held on to a 52-49 victory Monday in the first round of the Collinsville-Schuicks Holiday Classic.

The loss put the Warriors (6-3) in the consolation bracket of the tournament. Granite City was to play Jerseyville, a 76-38 loser to Lincoln, Tuesday at 4 p.m.

"We didn't come to play," said Deterding. "Maybe we were looking past this game. I don't know the reason."

Granite City was cold as ice in the first half, scoring just 22 points in the game's opening 16 minutes. The poor shooting (22-for-51) seemed to have a carry-over effect and lasted the whole game.

"We came on the floor expecting a blowout, and when it wasn't there we just didn't put out the effort," Deterding said. "This is a real low point. It could be the worst game we've played since the schools merged."

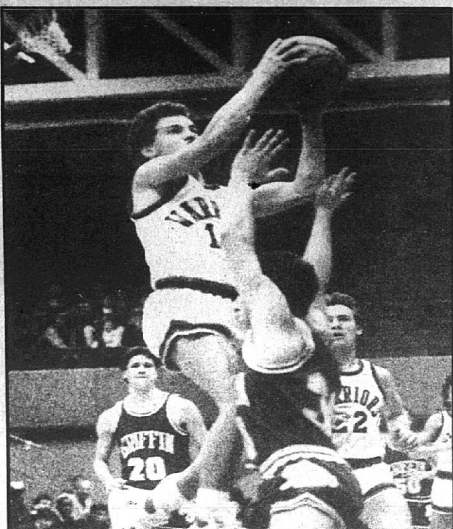

The Warriors had enough weapons to beat the less-talented Cyclones, but Granite City never got untracked. It was a combination of several factors — poor shot selection, bad passes and turnovers — that spelled the difference.

"We lost our direction out there," Deterding said. "We forgot that we were playing for Granite City and not as individuals."

Tom Taylor was the Warriors' leading scorer with 14 points, but he scored just two points in the final quarter. Tim Hogan added 12 and Jamie Hogan dropped in 11 points.

Robbie Fix led all shooters with 16 points. Ed Gresham scored 13 points. No other Griffin player cracked double figures.

Both teams did not connect on offense. Granite City shot 43 percent from the floor, while Griffin wasn't much better. The Cyclones were 21-of-51 (41 percent).

The Hogans felt most of the ill effects of cold shooting. They were a combined 3-of-18 from the floor in the first half.

After trailing 25-22 at the intermission, the Warriors rallied in the third quarter. Using a swarming defense, Granite City reeled off 11 unanswered points, transforming a 31-24 deficit into a 35-31 lead.

It was during that run that the Warriors looked their sharpest. Tim Hogan ran the break and was hot from the outside, while Taylor drove the baseline and scored.

Granite City outscored Griffin 15-8 in the third quarter. Using a

Ailing Devils get to finals

FREEBURG — Being sick during the Christmas holidays is no fun. Especially when you have to play four basketball games in five nights.

But that was the task facing the Venice Red Devils, and even though the flu bug had hit three of their starters, including Jesse Hall, they managed to reach the finals of the Freeburg Holiday Tournament, where they were to play Lebanon Tuesday night for the championship. Lebanon beat Gibault 77-76 in the other semifinal game behind 32 points from Steve Schieppe.

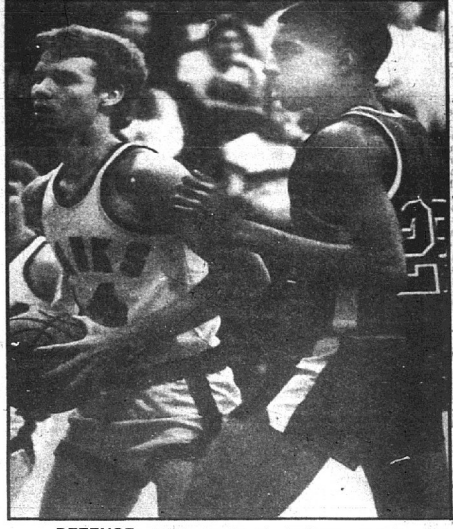

On Monday, the Devils defeated Columbia in the semifinals 66-43, and although a flu-weakened Hall scored only 12 points, it was a more Venice-like performance than Saturday's game against Carrollton. In that one, with Hall, Vincent Harris and Wilfred Wigfall all under the weather, Venice turned to a slow-down offense of all things. Hall had 14 in that one, and spent the entire third quarter and most of the fourth on the bench, partly because of the flu and partly because he had three fouls.

"We've said we could win without Jesse having a real outstanding game, and we have proved it here," said Venice coach Clinton Harris. "We had some guys with the flu, but he had it worst of all. That's Mother Nature."

The Devils came out flying against Columbia, which had upset New Athens in the first round of the tournament. Wigfall scored two quick buckets and Hall added one as Venice took a 15-6 lead after one quarter.

The Eagles got as close as 16-10 early in the second quarter, but the Devils outscored them 15-2 after that. Vincent Harris ended the half by faking an inbound pass and whirling to swish a 39-footer at the buzzer.

"Just like Larry Bird," he said. "The Venice defense again was a key, forcing 32 turnovers in the first half and holding Columbia to 12 points as they took a 31-12 lead. Hall began to find his legs in the second half and started pushing the ball up the court more. He missed one dunk and was called for a technical for hanging on the rim, but he finally got a slam early in the fourth quarter.

By then it was 52-29, as Venice shot 76 percent from the field through three quarters. They finished up 29 of 48 (60 percent), while the Eagles clocked in at 20 of 49 (41 percent). They were helped by the fact that they were whistled for only seven fouls, while Columbia had 16.

"They were calling it kind of close the first couple of games here," Harris said. "But it wasn't so tight tonight. That allows us to try for a few more steals."

Harris and Dale Turner were

Trojans stumble against Triad in first round, 66-65

By Gregg Ochoa

COLLINSVILLE — It was a close shave, little too late. Madison fell behind early and then fought back against Triad in an opening round game of the Collinsville-Schuicks Holiday Classic. However, the rally fell short at the free throw line as Triad won 66-65.

Madison had a chance to win with one second left, but Orlando McCarthy missed a free throw that would have tied the game.

The Trojans then lost opportunity for a second shot on a lane violation. A Madison player moved to the back court after McCarthy received the ball.

"I take the blame for that," said

TRIAD: Strimling 11, White 8, Owens 20, Hall 12, Kruze 15, PG-24, FT-18, PF-18.

MADISON: Johnson 22, Briggs 8, Stanley 2, McCarthy 15, Ware 5, PG-20, FT-15, PF-15.

Trojan coach Rich Essington. "I pulled our player out of the lane; I didn't want to risk a foul."

Ironically for Madison, this was the third time in the history of the tournament that the outcome of their first round game rested at the free throw line.

In 1984, James Bennett hit two foul shots with one second left to lift the Trojans to a victory. Last year, Reggie Young's foul shots sent the game into overtime, where Madison beat Decatur MacArthur 80-78.

The Trojans clawed their way back from a 32-43 deficit after the third quarter and went ahead 61-60 on a lay-up by Lamont Johnson with 1:30 left. Johnson led all scorers with 32 points.

Triad regained the lead on two free throws by Phil Helf, but Johnson canned a jumper to regain the lead for Madison.

Steve Summerlot responded for the Knights with two foul shots. The Trojans took their final lead when Johnson made both ends of a bonus.

Triad regained possession and worked for a final shot. They got the ball to Brian Owens, who was fouled by Madison's Carlos Briggs.

Owens hit both the shots as nine seconds showed on the clock.

The Trojans had a final shot. Johnson's short jumper rolled off the rim, but McCarthy was fouled. "We did everything we had to but make the free throw," Essington said.

For the game, Madison shot 51-5 of 15 from the line (33 percent). Triad made 18-of-24 foul shots (75 percent).

McCarthy finished with 19 points, but he and Johnson were the only two Trojans in double figures.

Triad had a much more balance-ed attack. Owens dropped in 20 points. David Kruse had 15 before fouling out. Summerlot scored 11 and Helf 12 points.

"If we play as hard in the first three quarters as we did in the last, it probably would have been a different game," Essington said. Madison came out sluggish in the opening period and fell behind 11-4 after a Summerlot jump shot. Triad led by nine points (19-10) after the first quarter.

The Knights continued to apply the pressure and led 31-16 after Kruse canned a turnaround jumper. Madison regrouped for a five-point run, but trailed at halftime 37-25.

"It all comes down to execution," Essington said. "We didn't do a lot of things we talked about, both on offense and defense."

There were times when we worked our offense and got good shots, and other times where we were standing around."

The Trojans chipped away in the third quarter, outscoring the Knights 18-15. Madison cut the lead to eight when Otis Ware scored underneath.

Johnson and McCarthy each scored eight points in the fourth quarter as the Trojans outscored Triad 22-14.

Three straight Madison baskets cut Triad's lead to 55-55 with 3:24 left. After Summerlot missed the

Crystal ball sees lots of dousing, Tampa police

Incredible as it might seem, none of my predictions, 1986, which appeared in this space a year ago at this time, came true. But although Ara Parseghian didn't become coach of the Big Red, it was still another wacky year.

Undaunted, I will again dig out the dusty crystal ball and take a crack at forecasting what 1987 might bring in SportsWorld, USA.

Jan. 2: The Penn State Nittany Lions defeat the Miami Hurricanes 34-7 in the Sunbuck Fiesta Bowl. Lion QB John Shaffer passes for 372 yards and three touchdowns, while Vinny Testaverde is 7 for 22 with three interceptions. Al Testaverde disowns his son.

Jan. 11: The New York Giants stop the Chicago Bears short in their bid for a second consecutive Super Bowl title, 20-7. Giant running back Otis (Don't Hit Me Hard) Anderson has an outstanding day, running the ball three times without slipping to the turf once. The Bears have to call Bob Avellini out of retirement to play quarterback, and Lawrence Taylor commits unspeakable crimes on Avellini's body.

Jan. 25: In the first all-New York Super Bowl, the Giants defeat the Jets 34-10 for their first-ever Super Bowl win. The Jets lost all their playoff games, extending their losing streak to nine games, but for some reason they kept getting invited back to play another week.

Minutes after the game, Commissioner Pete Rozelle rules the Jets will be awarded the game due to a little-known Ziebrek rule. Parcells douses Rozelle with scalding hot coffee.

March 4: As spring training opens, the Baseball Cardinals are still in search of a power-hitting righthanded swinger to bat behind Jack Clark. Short of cloning Clark, the best chance is Expo third sacker Tim Wallach. But the Expos now want Terry Pendleton, John Tudor, Tom Herr and Whitey Herzog's first-born son.

March 26: The Cardinals finally get the power hitter they need, signing Big Red strong safety Leonard Smith. Smith might not hit the baseball far, but he can knock the opposing pitcher into short left field. The Wallach deal is put on the shelf.

April 7: Every member of the Vancouver Canucks, New Jersey Devils, New York Rangers, Buffalo Sabres and Detroit Red Wings is awarded a plaque by National Hockey League commissioner John Ziegler for accomplishing sports' most difficult task — not making the Stanley Cup playoffs.

April 8: The Cardinals open the year with a 12-11 loss in Chicago. Ryne Sandberg belts three extra-inning home runs off Todd Worrell. The Cardinal bat boy is lost in the tall infield grass at Wrigley Field. Leonard Smith has a tough time with Cub reliever Lee Smith, who is bigger than any tight end Leonard ever faced.

May 10: The Blues advance to the Stanley Cup finals with an incredible 7-6 win over the Edmonton Oilers in the seventh game of their semifinal series. The Oilers' Steve Smith scores three goals into his own net in the final two minutes to give the Blues the win. It's Smith's first career hat trick.

May 22: The Blues fall in the seventh game of the Stanley Cup finals to the Philadelphia Flyers. The Blues win all three games played at the Philadelphia Spectrum, but lose all four games at the Arena.

May 23: Blues coach Jacques Martin resigns, complaining that owner Michael Shanahan had bragged that he had one of the best coaches in the league at a cheap price.

May 24: After going through Jacques Demers and Jacques Martin, the Blues announce that Jacques Costeau is the new coach. Costeau praises the Blues' work ethic, then says he will try to schedule some underwater games for the 1987-88 season.

July 4: It's the Cardinals and the Mets once again in a heated pennant race. Leonard Smith has made the Cardinals the most physical team in baseball, and Leonard and Ozzie are more popular than Lomnie and Ozzie ever were.

The Mets have started a ritual of dousing manager Davey Johnson with Gatorade after each win. But when Dwight Gooden does the deed after a win over the Dodgers, he is arrested by the Tampa police for aggravated assault.

Aug. 25: All 130 players are arrested by the Tampa police after a riot between the Big Red and the Bears in their preseason game at Busch Stadium. Valtteri Sikkonen is the only player left, and he returns three punts for touchdowns as the Big Red win.

Sept. 30: Gooden is arrested by Tampa police after being allegedly attacked in the bullpen by Leonard Smith. The tussle spills out onto the field, where Herzog douses Johnson with a large container full of cold, frosty Budweiser. The Cardinals win the division later that night after a two-out wild pitch by Jesse Orosco ties the game in the bottom of the ninth. Then Andy Van Slyke's slow roller toward the first base line goes right through Kevin McReynolds' legs, scoring Vince Coleman with the winner.

McReynolds was playing first because Keith Hernandez, with victory seemingly assured, was in the clubhouse with a Budweiser and a crossword puzzle. Hernandez is arrested by Tampa police, as is McReynolds.

Oct. 20: The Cardinals are rallying in the bottom of the ninth of Game 7 of the World Series, but the dream dies when Willie McGee's sizzling liner is speared by Red Sox first baseman Bill Buckner. Veteran Series observers say it might have been the greatest defensive play in the long history of the Fall Classic.

Buckner is doused with painkillers for his ankles.

Nov. 15: The Big Red are struggling along at 3-7. Leonard Smith appears tired after a long summer of baseball, but a bright spot is the play of Sikahema, who has returned 12 punts for touchdowns. The Cardinals are having trouble coming up with big plays. Roy Green's longest reception of the year is for five yards. Opposing teams have fumbled 35 times in 10 games, but the Big Red has yet to recover one.

Dec. 20: The Big Red, after a late-season winning streak, fall short of the playoffs by tying the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 12-12 at Busch Stadium. Sikahema returns two punts for touchdowns, but John Lee misses both extra points. He also misses three field goals of less than 30 yards in overtime. Donald Igwebuike has four field goals of at least 50 yards for the Bucs.

Tampa Bay fumbles six times in the game — all of them inside their own 5-yard line — but the Big Red can't recover any of them. Gene Stallings blames the officials. He and Lee are arrested by Tampa police.

Dec. 31: At a New Year's party, Gooden is arrested by Tampa police for showing up in his Mets uniform. Gooden is doused with a container full of Gatorade at the police station. Happy New Year!

Warriors holding on to lead in tournament

By Gary King
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — They haven't won the race yet, but they jumped out to a nice head start Monday night.

Through the first day of the 26th annual Granite City Holiday Wrestling Tournament, the Warrior matmen were in a prime position to defend their tourney championship, as they headed the pack with 82½ points going into Tuesday's final round.

But the battle was far from over, as Warrior coach Walt Whitaker was quick to point out.

"The points look real good now, but the big points will come tomorrow (Tuesday)," Whitaker said. "We're going to have to wrestle awful tough to hold on to it."

Indeed they will.

Heading into the final round, only 20 points separated the top six teams in the 16-squad extravaganza. By the end of the first round, Cahokia had notched its way up to second-place in the standings with 69 points, followed by Hazelwood Central and Bloomington with 68½ points each.

Belleville East and Roxana rounded out the top six slots with scores of 62½ and 61, respectively.

But Granite City figured to have plenty of opportunities to rack up points in the final two rounds of the tourney, as they failed to advance only one wrestler — 112-pounder Rich Smallie — into the final day of competition.

Of the 11 Granite City matmen who advanced through the first day, only 155-pounder Dave Knigl managed to avoid suffering a loss.

Knigl won his first two bouts by decision, while picking up his third with a technical fall victory over Terry Carter of East St. Louis Lincoln.

The other 10 Warrior wrestlers who advanced posted 2-1 records on the day.

Granite City was forced to overcome first-round defeats in the 119, 136 and 167-pound divisions, as Scott Moss, Jon Morgan and Paul Brandt each dropped their opening matches.

Moss fell to Bloomington's Robert Arreola before bouncing back to defeat Civic Memorial's Dave Schuetz and Decatur's Shane Anderson.

Morgan dropped a 10-2 verdict in his first-round match with Roxana's highly-touted Eric Roberson. But he advanced by picking up consecutive technical fall wins over Lincoln's Gary Hoskins and McCluer's Pete Eckhoff.

After falling 16-4 to McCluer North's Steve Blanner, Brandt came back to pin Riverview Garden's Jim Glascock with 20 seconds left in their 167-pound match. The loss to Blanner was Brandt's first.

Two of the day's biggest surprises came in the 145 and 185 divisions.

Jim Stout, wrestling in what Whitaker said was his "first varsity match ever," managed to advance to the second day of competition by pinning McCluer's Ray Baker and Lincoln's Tizer Smith. Stout lost his second-round duel, 6-0, to Belleville East's Fred Echols.

Mike Lynch also pulled one of the biggest individual upsets of the day, as he outdueled Cahokia's Jack Brooks, winning by a technical fall at the 4:13 mark of their bout.

Lynch would drop a 16-4 decision to Bloomington's Fred Ledbetter before coming back to post another win by technical fall over Carbondale's Ian Blanche.

Five Warrior wrestlers posted victories in their first two matches of the day before bowing in the third.

At 98 pounds, Todd Hutchinson posted consecutive technical fall victories before dropping a 15-0 whitewash to Roxana's Jason Warner.

Brent Davis fell in the third round to Carbondale's Marquis Lewis, 6-4, after advancing through the first two rounds with a decision and a win by fall.

Richie Wilson was handed a rare loss by Bloomington's Tim Lee, who captured a 6-0 overtime decision in the 126-pound division. The match had originally ended in a 4-4 stalemate.

Tracy Morrison also was handed a third-round loss in the 132 division, as he fell 4-2 to McCluer's Terry Welsh.

Heavyweight Ross Kabarski was forced to default from his third-round match when he suffered a knee injury. Kabarski had won his two previous matches by virtue of technical falls.

According to Whitaker, Kabarski's injury is not believed to be serious and he was expected to wrestle in today's rounds.

Complete tournament results will appear in Friday's Press-Record.

also in double figures for the Devils with 10 points each. On Saturday, only Hall (14) and Wigfall (10) were in double figures as the Devils sat on the ball in the second half. It worked, as Carrollton got off only two shots in the third quarter. Venice had taken a 24-25 lead at halftime on a Kevin Gardner basket, and Gardner got another big bucket in the final second of the third quarter to open up a 10-point lead (35-25). Those were his only two baskets of the night, but they were big ones.

Venice had beaten Waterloo Gibraltar 87-60 on Friday, but the game meant nothing as far as the tournament was concerned. Because there were only 14 teams, those two were the top seeds, and both moved on to the winner's bracket. Hall had 22 in that one, while Turner added 14 and Wigfall 13.

"I really considered holding Jesse out of that one," Harris said. But the Devils continue to play through the flu. They had won nine in a row and were 10-1 heading into the tournament title game against the same Lebanon team that beat them in the closing seconds of last year's title game at Columbia.

"I'm glad it's happening now," Harris said of the flu. "We'll have everybody healthy by regional time. And this gives everyone a chance to play."

Including James Treadway, the star of the Devils' junior varsity team got into Monday's game late and scored a point.

swarming, smothering defense, the Warriors led 37-33.

"I figured since we weren't doing anything on offense, I thought we could turn things around on defense," Deterding said. "It worked, a little bit, but not enough."

Griffin scored the first three points of the fourth quarter and cut the Warrior lead to 37-36. Consecutive baskets by Tim and Jamie Hogan pushed the lead back to five (41-36) with about 4:30 left.

What happened next was a series of turnovers and bad passes. It allowed Griffin back in to the game. P.J. Bolt tied the game at 45-45 with a short jumper with 2:41 remaining.

"We became mentally stagnant," Deterding said. "We stopped hustling and working."

Oresham worked free for two quick buckets underneath and Springfield Griffin, which finished 7-17 a year ago, stretched its lead to 49-45 with about two minutes left.

Two free throws by Jamie Hogan cut the lead back to two points, but reserve forward Ed Brown hit two free throws with 1:12 left to ice the game.

Girls lose at Mascoutah

It was two games and out for the Warrior girls at the tough Mascoutah Holiday Tournament last weekend.

Granite City (2-8) was routed by the host team on Friday night by a 54-18 count. The Warriors managed only two points in the opening quarter and four in each of the next two. They trailed 25-6 at halftime and 40-10 after three quarters.

In the consolation quarterfinal game on Saturday afternoon, the Warriors were again victimized by a slow start. Triad burst out to an 18-4 lead after one quarter and rolled to a 73-47 triumph. Granite City actually had the better of the play in the second and fourth quarters, but they also came out flat in the third quarter, with the Lady Knights outscoring them 24-8.

Freshman Kim Pawlak had 20 points for the Warriors in the 53-minute game.

The Warriors have a heavy slate of Southwestern Conference games next week. They play at Collinsville Tuesday night, then host East St. Louis and Belleville East on Wednesday and Thursday.

A chief justice at Valley Forge, 1777

By Albert Beveridge,
Former U.S. senator,
Pulitzer Prize winner

Gaunt and bitter swept down the winter of 1777. But the season brought no lean months to the soldiers of King George.

It was a period of rest and safety for the red-coated privates in the city where, during the preceding year, the Liberty Bell had sounded its clamorous defiance; a time of revelry and merry-making for the officers of the Crown. Gay days chased nights still gay, and weeks of social frolic made the winter pass like the scenes of a warm and glowing play.

Not 20 miles away from these scenes of British plenty and content, rose the bleak hills and black ravines of Valley Forge where Washington's army had crawled some weeks after Germantown. On the Schuylkill heights and valleys, the desperate Americans made an encampment which, says Trevelyan, "bids fair to be the most celebrated in the world's history."

The hills were wooded and the freezing soldiers were ordered off in parties of 12 to build huts in which to winter. It was more than a month before all these rude habitations were erected.

While the huts were being built the scarcely clad soldiers had to find what shelter they could. Some slept in tents, but most of them lay down beneath the trees.

For want of blankets, hundreds had "to sit up all night by fires." After Germantown, Washington's men had little to eat at any time. On Dec. 2, "the last ration had been delivered and consumed."

As Christmas approached, George Washington became so disheartened that he feared that "this army must dissolve." And the next day he again warned Congress that, unless the Commissary were quickly improved, "this army must inevitably...starve, dissolve, or disperse."

Two days before Christmas there was "not a single hoof of any kind to slaughter and not more than 25 barrels of flour." Men died by the score from starvation. Most of the time "fire cake" made of dirty, soggy dough, warmed over smoky fires, and washed down with polluted water, was the only sustenance.

On the day after Christmas the soldiers waded through snow halfway to their knees. Soon it was red from their bleeding feet. The cold stung like a whip.

The huts were like "dungeons and, full as noisome." Tar, pitch and powder had to be burned in them to drive away stench. The horses "died by hundreds every week."

The soldiers, staggering with weakness as they were, hitched themselves to the wagons and did the necessary hauling. If a portion of earth was warmed by the fires or by their tramping feet, it froze again into ridges which cut like knives.

Often, some of the few blankets in the army were torn into strips and wrapped around the naked feet of the soldiers only to be rent into shreds by the sharp ice under foot.

Need, was there not, at Valley Forge for men of resolve so firm and disposition so sunny that they would not yield to the gloom of these men, for spirits so bright and high that they could penetrate even the death-stricken depression of this fetid camp with the glow of optimism and of hope?

Such characters were there, we find, and of these the most shining of all was John Marshall of the Virginia line, later to become a celebrated chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

He was a very torch of warmth and encouragement it appears; for in the journals and diaries left by those who lived through Valley Forge, the name of John Marshall is singled out as conspicuous for these comforting qualities.

"Although," writes Lt. Philip Slaughter, who, with the "two Porterfields and Johnson," was the messmate of John Marshall, "they were reduced sometimes to a single shirt, having to wrap themselves in a blanket when that was washed" and "the snow was knee-deep all the winter and stained with blood from the naked feet of the soldiers," yet "nothing discouraged, nothing disturbed," John Marshall.

"If he had only bread to eat," records his fellow officer, "it was just as well; if any meat it made no difference. If any of the officers murmured at their deprivations, he would share them by good-natured rally, or encourage them by his own exuberance of spirits."

"He was an excellent companion, and idolized by the soldiers and his brother officers, whose gloomy hours were enlivened by his inexhaustible fund of anecdote... John Marshall was the best-tempered man I ever knew."

So starving, freezing, half blind with smoke, thinly clad and almost shoeless, John Marshall went through the century-long weeks of Valley Forge, poking fun wherever he found despondency, his drollery bringing laughter to cold-purpled lips, and his light-hearted heroism shining into erectness the bent back of those from whom hope had fled.

At one time it would be this prank; another time it would be a different expedient for diversion. By some miracle he got hold of a pair of silk stockings and at midnight made a great commotion because the leaves he had gathered to sleep on had caught fire and burned a hole in his grotesque furs.

High spirits undimmed, intelligence shining like a lamp, common sense true as the surveyor's level — these were the qualities which at Valley Forge singled out the boyish Virginia officer from all that company of gloom.

Just before the army went into winter quarters Capt. Lt. Marshall was appointed deputy judge advocate in the Army of the United States, and at the same time, by the same order, James Monroe was appointed aide-de-camp to Lord Stirling, one of Washington's generals.

Such was the confidence of his fellow officers and of the soldiers themselves in Marshall's judgment and fairness that they would come to him with their disputes and abide by his decision; and these tasks, it seems, the young Solomon took quite seriously.

He heard both sides with utmost patience; and having taken plenty of time to think it over, rendered his decision, giving the reasons in writing.

So just after he had turned his 22nd year, we find John Marshall already showing those qualities which so distinguished him in later life as a Supreme Court justice. Valley Forge was a better training for Marshall's peculiar abilities than Oxford or Cambridge could have been.

Should the poor learn English?

By John H. Bunzel
Analysis

While equal opportunity is a major goal of education, the debate over bilingual education still divides educators, minority groups and politicians — and often anyone who has children.

Can poor children perform as well as rich ones? Individually, we might answer yes. But as a society we often send less encouraging signals to the poor.

When it comes to learning foreign languages, the rich still have it better. These days, children of privilege often learn French, Spanish and German in immersion programs, rigorous courses taught exclusively in the language to be studied. The English-speaking instructor, the monastic verb translations, the Berlitz cassettes — all are cast aside to force students to think like foreigners.

It's not painless but it's the kind of pain that parents from Scarsdale to Bel Air are willing to pay dearly for.

By contrast, most children of recent immigrants (especially the Spanish-speaking) are enrolled in bilingual education classes that shy away from English and are taught primarily in the student's native tongue. One of the ideas behind this pedagogical technique is that nervous, faltering immigrants might drop out or flunk out if they had to learn English from scratch.

Sometimes, these programs quickly dispose of the foreign language crutch and rush students into the mainstream of American life. Frequently, however, the result is a resegregation of the schoolhouse, with Hispanics in one classroom, native born in another. The Massachusetts Board of Education reports that in Boston many Hispanic children have been in bilingual programs their entire school career, which means that for eight years they have never been integrated into a classroom with the general school population. And guess who falls farther and farther behind?

Can foreign-born students be taught English with the same immersion techniques that finishing schools use to teach Flaubert? No one knows for sure. What can be said is that everyone learns a language from point zero. The key ingredient is motivation, which comes in many ways.

It may be a fad, but well-off parents who might otherwise send their kids to private school have shown an increasing interest in immersion programs. In one public elementary school in Posh Montgomery County, Maryland, a French-immersion program has grown from one classroom to more than 250 students.

Lately, educators and civil rights leaders have blasted Secretary of Education William J. Bennett's moderate proposal to change the federal law that presently permits only 1 percent of available funds to be spent on any program that is not bilingual.

If this limitation were removed (and with some changes in state law), schools would have greater leeway to use their bilingual education funds for English immersion programs or any other sensible-sounding program.

Similarly, many corporations, with worldwide interests also use immersion because they believe it is important to learn a foreign culture in the host country's tongue.

Perhaps the preference of the well-to-do for immersion may someday diminish. But still, shouldn't we be a bit nervous when their reaped educational benefits unavailable to the poor?

If someone said that Tolstoy was appropriate for students at Exeter but not for students in Harlem, we would be outraged. Maybe we should get equally upset when educators insist that tough immersion programs are fine for those in the "dominant" culture but inappropriate for those who are struggling.

Bilingual education programs can be made to work if they do not allow students to linger on the margins of American life.

Teaching professionals should remember one dictum: Be as demanding with the foreign-born as you would with some lawyer's child.
